Tack into place on the body both pieces of the tail feather. The tail feather is so narrow that it takes a double layer to give it more structure.

Layer and pin into place the belly, wing and upper wing. Using a blanket stitch in white floss, sew on the upper wing.

Sew on a trio of dark colored glass seed beads for the eye.

Sew on the belly piece with a blanket stitch. I opted for black but I think white might be prettier.

Pin the completed body front and body back together. Use a blanket stitch to sew the two pieces together. Pause to stuff with fiberfill before finishing.

Sew on the beak with dark gray floss.

Have fun!
